

CADLearning and EBA Teams – a Perfect Match!

By adding CADLearning to an EBA, your customers get tons of value while you increase service revenue and prove ROI with:

- An out-of-the-box Autodesk-exclusive library
- Role-specific learning
- Visibility into customer software usage
- In-application support
- Neural translations for more than 60 languages
- Accelerator assistance
- And more!

As an approved EBA reseller, adding CADLearning is easy.

Want us to help in the sales process?

Let's have a quick chat about the customer, their pain points, and their key performance indicators.

We will use this info to build a customized presentation that illustrates how we solve their problems.

If they want a pilot, we will manage it. After 30-days we will show them a clear snapshot of the skills they gained in such a short time.

Are they ready to buy?

Just email us at sales@cadlearning.com. Tell us the approximate number of users and start and end dates, and we will provide you with two quotes: one with your cost and one with the final cost.

Then, send these quotes to ADISK purchasing for your region and they will issue us a PO – see, easy peasy!

So what does it cost?

Once we understand a customer's needs and budget, we can come up with a custom solution perfect for them.

How do we ensure success?

We have found that working together is the key to mutual success. You tell us about your initiatives, trainings, accelerators, and product releases, etc., and we will align our efforts with yours. And we work together to determine KPIs, a success plan, and meet regularly to review those benchmarks.